

School year —

- language training in native language/in language spoken at home
- nurturing the language acquired abroad
(Tick off only one alternative)

The guardian shall take into account the following issues related to arranging language training

1. As a general rule, language training is provided two (2) times per week.
2. Language training is not necessarily given at the pupil's own school.
3. The aim is to give language training at normal school hours, but in case of some languages, training can be given outside normal school hours.
